RAIDERS AFTER FARRELLY

PRISONERS THE POLICE KNOW FROM BIGGEST HARLEM POOLROOM.

500 Men Filed Out One by One White Crowd Cheered and Jeered-Four "Bill Browns" Cause Emotion in Elizabeth Street Police Station - One Sixth Avenue John Doc.

The biggest poolroom in Harlem and one of the biggest in the city, situated in the basement of Dusel's "Junction" saloon at 128th street, St. Nicholas avenue and Eighth avenue, was raided about & o'clock yesterday afternoon by two agents of the New York Society for the Enforcement of the Criminal Law and eight Central Office detectives, and four prisoners were made. At the same time another agent of the society and three Central Office men raided a poolroom at 104 Sixth avenue and captured one John Doe.

Detective John R. Wood, who figured conspicuously in the Jerome-Philbin Dev street raid, was in charge of the uptown raid, and he says he got nearer to John Doe than the Fifteen ever did. The room, he says, is one of Farrell's places and one of the prisoners is Farrell's agent. One of them was evidently well known to the police, who locked them up. Wood entered the place armed with a blanket warrant for four William Browns issued by Magistrate Deuel at the request of Assistant District Attorney Schurman, who prepared the complaints.

When the raiders reached the top of the stairway leading down into the basement of 2269 Eighth avenue the place was ablaze with electric lights and 400 or 500 men were in the place packed so tightly and so intent on the result of the race that was coming in on the wire that they were taken completely by surprise. The building is but one story high and triangular in shape. The main stairway leading into the basement is on the corner of 128th street. On Eighth avenue a narrow door leads into the place and a network of electric wires strung in over the door makes it a difficult entrance or exit. Wood and Detective Sergeant Millmore stationed three men at the Eighth avenue entrance and with the other five went down the stairway at the corner. Wood went first, forcing in the door, and the detectives, all but two, who were ordered to guard the door, fol-

As soon as the little party got inside the outside door a look-out who emitted a warwhoop burst through a small door in a partition. At the same time somebody turned out the electric lights, and a scramble for the Eighth avenue exit followed. In the half light Wood spied two of his William Browns jumping partitions and making toward a closet. He vaulted after them, and got them both by the collar. Nobody was let out at the corner door. All had to file out into Eighth avemue, one by one. Out of the procession Wood picked out the two other Bill Browns. Several thousand people collected in front of the saloon, and as each man was led out, inspected and let go, the crowd cheered

Millmore telephoned to the West 125th street station for a patrol wagon. Going back into the place after it had been emptied the raiders took possession of a load of telephones, telegraph instruments, score cards, betting sheets and so on. After he patrol wagon drove down to the Criminal Courts Building.

The raid in Sixth avenue was made by Agent Hamilton and Detectives McNamara Agent Hamilton and Detectives McNamara and Floy. Hamilton had but one warrant. When he arrived at the poolroom, he says, a man was waiting on the corner apparently expecting him. The man walked immediately to the doorway of 104 Sixth avenue, but before he could get inside Hamilton grabbed him, flung him outside and ran up the stairs. Right in the middle of the room he found his prisoner and nabbed him. Then he gathered in all the paraphernalia in sight and the raid accomplished he and in sight and the raid accomplished he and McNamara and Floy made for the Criminal Courts Building, where they arrived just

It was then almost 6 o'clock, and not a soul was in the building except Lawyer Philip Waldheimer, who waltzed up to the prisoners and said:

"These are my clients. Wait here and I will go and get a Judge to ball them out."

Mr. Waldheimer hurried out, but in fifteen minutes he came back saying that he had failed to get a Judge. It was decided to take the prisoners to the Elizabeth street station, lock them up over night, and arraign them before Magistrate Deuel this morn-

When the party reached the Elizabeth street station Sergt. Colton, who was at the desk, greeted it with a scowl, and all the Central Office men bent double with laughter and slapped their knees.

"Whatteryer got here," growled the sergeant.
Millmore smiled and explained. Agents

Wood and Hamilton beamed from the

"Trot 'em out an' I'll take their pedigree," snapped the sergeant, and the prisoners were arraigned. John Doe described himself as Edward John Doe described nimself as raward H. Barnwell. The Bill Browns gave their names as John M. Post, Frederick Rosel, James Willson and Thomas Rogers. When Rogers gave his name he winked at the sergeant and the sergeant buried his head in the blotter. Agent Wood informed him that the prisoner had given a Columbus. that the prisoner had given a Columbus avenue storage house as his address, and the prisoner replied: "Wat t'ell." Rogers's face has been seen around the Criminal Courts Building when the victims of other poolroom raids were arraigned.

After the five men had given their names, or somebody elso's, Sergt. Colton roared

"Search these prisoners and see that they haven't got a gun or knife on them to do themselves with." There was more laughter and after this search the men were locked up.

The room at 2260 Eighth avenue is in Capt. Thomas's precinct, the West 125th street. Agent Wood said that it was closed during the life and activity of the Committee of Fifteen, but opened up a week ago. The Sixth avenue place is in the precinct of Capt. William T. Thompson and has been open only about two weeks, according to Agent Hamilton. cording to Agent Hamilton.

EIGHT-ROUB LAW NOT UPHELD? Court of Appeals Decision in Lontilhon Cas Differently Construed.

Corporation Counsel Whalen gave out a statement yesterday in which he said that the Court of Appeals in its decision on the appeal of Engene Lentilhon from the decision of the lower court sustaining the Comptroller in refusing to pay him $16,919.81 earned under the contract for the removal of the old reservoir at Bryant Park on the ground that Lentilhon had neglected to comply with the eight-hour law, had declared the eight-hour law to be constitutional.

L. Laffin Kellogg, of counsel to Mr. Lentilhon, when he heard this said that the Corporation Counsel must be misinformed. for the decision did not in any way affect the eight-hour law, and was based only on point of practice.

Comptroller Coler refused to pay Lentihon on the ground that he had worked his men more than eight hours a day, and had more than eight hours a day, and had not paid them the prevailing rate of wages. The prevailing rate of wages law has already been declared unconstitutional. Mr. Lentihon applied for a writ of mandamus to compel the city to pay. The application was dismissed all the way up. Mr. Kellogg said yesterday that all that the Court of Appeals had passed on was the method of seeking redress, and that all its decision amounted to was that a mandamus was not the proper remedy. Mr. Kellogg said that he would begin an action at law at once for the recovery of the amount which his client claims from the city, and he added once for the recovery of the amount which his client claims from the city, and he added that when this case came up it would bring up the constitutionality of the law.

In Stone vs. the Municipal Civil Service Commission, the Appellate Division has affirmed the decision of Justice Scott that police officers detailed to the Health Department need not pass a civil service examination prior to such detail.

M'KINLEY RECEIVES CALLERS.

Kentucky Patronage Occupying the President's

Attention -He Declines to Go to Buffalo. CANTON, Ohio, July 11 .- Chairs on the McKinley porch were occupied a considerable part of the day by people awaiting an opro:tunity to present some request to the President or through the corretary to seek his assistance in personal matters. Few of the day's callers were well known, but some of them had come a considerable distance to see the President. One of the best known was Leslie Combs of Lexington, Ky. Mr. Combs is prominent in Republican politics of Kentucky and was chairman of last year's Executive Committee. He had a half hour's chat with the President on the front porch after dinner this evening. He did not deny that it related to a matter of patronage, but said it was not a matter of public interest and declined to go into details. Mr. Combs was in close touch with National Republican Headquarters last year.

Thomas T. Aikins and Lieut, G. Gillespie came here from St. Louis to convince the President that Lieut. Gillesple would make a good United States Consul for one of the more important points in South Africa. Just what success they achieved is not known. The other callers of the day were for the most part persons with matters before one or another of the Departments. They told their

The management of the Pan-American Exposition had hoped to secure the attendance of the President for Obio Day next Thursday at the Exposition, but he has sent regrets to the committee in charge of that day's doings. The President not only appreciates the benefit to Mrs. McKiney of remaining quietly here, but he also feels that he needs rest and that he can find it here better than any place else. The usual drives were taken to-day the President's brother, Abner, joining in

Bryanism Stronger Than Ever, Says a Chicago

The Chicago Platform Lemocrats in New York city declared yesterday that they were not at all cast down by the knockout blow which the Hon, John Roll McLean and his friends administered to the Kansas City Platform and the Peerless Leader in the Ohio Convention. not dead and that it wouldn't be permitted to die, and that they regarded the Ohio incident as of no consequence.

"Any one who thinks that the action of the Democratic Convention in Ohio means the death of the Kansas City platform and the return of the Democracy to Clevelandism is much mistaken, said Melville W. Palliser, one of the members of the Chicago Platform State Committee. "The Chicago Platform State Committee. The Chicago Platform Obemocracy was never as strong as it is today. It has taken no step backward, and it is increasing in strength daily. We expect to control the national convention. I do not believe that Mr. Bryan will again be the choice of the party for President. He has declared that he will not be a candidate and that ought to settle it. But we will fight for the principles that we have advocated, and if a split comes the conservatives must take the consequences."

OVERTHROW OF BRYANISM.

DEMOCRATS OF WISCONSIN AND GEORGIA APPROVE THE CHIO STAND.

Outspoken Expressions of Satisfaction Over the Platform Adopted by Ohio Democrats -Nebraska Democrats Declare That It Means a Return to Conservative Ideals.

MILWAUEEE, July 11 .- Leaders of the Wisconsin Democracy who were interviewed to-day on the action of the Ohio Democracy in turning down Bryan indorsed the move, A. F. Warden, chairman of the State Central

"The platform declarations as respects new issues and present tariff conditions are such as to meet with the heartiest approval of the party generally and many others as well. It is hard to predict the action of the party nationally on the proceedings of a single State convention in an off year. However, the stand taken by the Ohio Democracy is significant as affording the first evidence of a possible change of purpose of the party.

"The platform adopted by the Ohio State Democratic Convention is quite significant of the fact that the party in the future is disposed to act along more conservative lines disregarding the position of the party during the last two national campaigns."

R. B. Mallory said: "It looks to me like the beginning of the reorganization of the Democratic party upon the time-honored and underlying principles which previous to the inauguration of the new regime in the party led by Mr. Bryan, it had always championed. I predict that the party will now roturn to those first principles upon which the foundation of our republic rests and upon which it can only stand."

ATLANTA. Ga.. July ii.—The dethronement of William J. Bryan by the Ohio convention is indorsed by Georgia Democrats. Gov. Candler says:

"My letter to Tammany on the occasion of its Fourth of July celebration is exactly in line with the Ohio platform. I stated in it that trusts and imperialism should be given main attention next time. These are the evils that cry for correction. I do not consider it necessary to say anything about silver. It is no longer an issue, and I think should simply be left alone in framing our platforms. The financial question seems to have settled itself for a time at least."

Hoke Smith says:

"I am much pleased with the general features of the Ohio platform. It has broken off from the isms and gone back to the fundamental principles of true Democracy. The good work having been thus started the time is not far off when the Democratic party will again stand upon the solid foundation which it occupied with Tilden as a candidate. I am truly glad the Ohio Democrats dropped the free silver issue."

Senator Clay says:

"I Indorsed and still believe in the Chicago platform, but I also believe in the Chicago platform have brought forward new issues that for the present at least overshadow that of free silver. Therefore, we must give these issues precedence. I do not believe free silver will again be an issue. I think the Ohio Democracy was right in simply ignoring it in its platform.

Lincoln, Neb., July 11.—The action of the Ohio Democrats came as a stunning blow to Mr. Bryan's immediate friends, but they are unanimous in expressing the belief that if indicates only that the Democracy desired to emphasize its intention of a bandoning silver and that no personal slap at Mr. Bryan was intended, because while he had not renounced leadership, he had said he was not again a candidate. Mr. Bryan is absent in Tonnesse.

ANTI-TAMMANY CONFERENCE.

The managers of the anti-Tammany con ference have decided that it will be necessary to change their plans and to call that body together some time in August in order to get all the work that is necessary done and off their hands before the campaigning against the Croker ticket is begun. It had been proposed to reconvene about Sept. 18. Since then, all of the leaders in the Citi-zens' Union and the other bodies which will have to nominate their tickets by petition. have been looking the ground over very carefully, and they have come to the con-clusion that they haven't got any too much time. For the Citizens' Union to put in the field a full ticket of Aldermen, for instance, it will be necessary to secure the signatures of 40,000 voters to nominating petitions. This will take a lot of time. It will also be necessary, in order to establish anything like harmony among the conventions, to make nominations for city, borough, county and district offices to have them held on separate nights, and this will require two weeks at least. All of these things have made it appear wise to the managers of the movement that the conference should begin to get down to real hard work at once, and within a few days it is expected that Chairman Willis L. Ogden will make an announcement calling the conferees together.

Some time ago the officers of the Citizens' Union sent invitations to a large number of organizations of a semi-political or philanthropic character, inviting them to an informal conference at the Citizens' Union headquarters, 34 Union Square East, last evening. The object of this conference was to determine whether there was not some system that could be put into operation under which the efforts of all bodies opposed to Tammany Hall would be harmonious and unduplicating. A more formal meeting will be held within the next two weeks, Chairman H. Fulton Cutting of the Citizens' Union has headquarters in every district and it will be suggested to the other bodies that they may use these as their headquarters if they desire. Any organization issuing printed matter will be at liberty to use the Citizens' Union's distributing machinery, and by so doing this part of the work can be accomplished at less expense and more successfully than by haphazard efforts.

The City Committee of the Citizens' Union will meet on July 23 This will take a lot of time. It will also be necessary, in order to establish anything COMMISSIONER SHEA'S AMBITION.

the Borough of Brooklyn.

Under the amended charter, the Presi-dency of the borough of Brooklyn will be a highly important, honorable and comfortably salaried office, and if the gossip in Willoughby Street is reliable, Bridge Commis-sioner John L. PIERRE, S. D., July 11.—Gov. Herried to-day appointed A. B. Kittridge of Sioux Falls to succeed the late Senator Kyle. Histerm will expire March 4, 1902, and there is little doubt of his reelection.

Mr. Kittridge was born March 26, 1861, in Cheshire county, N. H. When 17 years of age he entered Yale University and was graduated in 1882. He then began the study of law in the office of Judge Vensey at Rutland, Vt. He entered the Yale law school,

CHICAGO, July 11 .- Senators Mason and Cullom again came to the city yesterday and communicated with each other by tele-phone. Senator Cullom agreed to meet his phone. Senator Culion agreed to meet his colleague soon to discuss the appointment of a successor to Mr. Dawes as Comptroller of the Currency. The names most often heard in the Mason camp in connection with the place are those of W. P. Williams, Sub-Treasurer at Chicago: Benjamin Felix of Felix & Marston, of Chleago, and Col. #### CUBA'S RECEIPTS FALL OFF. Importers Probably Waiting for the New Tariff

Law. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. HAVANA, July 11 .- The customs receipts for June were less by $235,000 than for the corresponding months of last year. Col Bliss. Collector of Customs, says that on June 15, 1900, the new tariff went into force. The tariff had been published in May and everybody knew that the duties on some of the principal articles would be raised. Merchants therefore hurried their importations through before June 15, thus raising the customs receipts for that month. This year every one expects a new tariff to be put into force shortly, and this may have had the effect of making merchants hold back their importations. Col. Bliss adds the fact that the balance of trade is against Cuba to the extent of $35,000,000, and this may in time affect the customs receipts. He would. therefore, not care to guarantee that the receipts will keep up to the mark hitherto

During the first six months of 1991 about $0,000,000 was spent by the Government of Cuba. The Cuban heads of departments have sent in estimates amounting to $10,-500,000 for the last six months of the current year. This includes $400,000 for schoolhouses, and $195,000 for public works. These estimates will be reduced.

Senor Vieta, the new Mayor of Clenfuegos, dismissed the Chief of Police of that city as soon as he entered office, despite the recent order that none of the police be dismissed except when charges are proved against them. Senor Vieta rafuses to obey this order. Adjutant General Scott says that the Mayor will have to reappoint the Chief of Police or he will name a new Mayor.

It is said that the declarations of Gen Maximo Gomez in the United States have had a strong effect on the Radicals here. The Diario de la Marina says that Gen. Gomez has dealt radicalism its death blow

ASHTABULA, Ohio, July 11 .- At 10 30 o'clock his morning the Nickel Plate Railroad bridge ear Springfield. Pa., east of here, fell while freight train was crossing it. Nine men were killed and ten injured. The majority of those killed and injured were the laborers who were at work beneath the bridge. The dead are: Phillip Moore, conductor, Conneaut, Ohio: Frank Kruze, laborer, Buffalo, N. Y.: John Cepos, laborer, Cleveland; George Swartz, laborer, North Springfield, Pa.;

and five Italians, names not known here. Engineer William Griffiths of Buffalo escaped injury, the front of the train having passed safely over the bridge before it fell. Seventy feet of the structural work fell. The bridge spans a gulley, which is several hundred feet wide. The Nickel Plate of late has been strengthening its bridges preparatory to running heavier engines over them, and work was progressing on this one, A big fill was being made to strengthen the structural work. The injured were taken to Conneant on the special train. It is likely that several will die from their injuries.

The wrecking trains are clearing away the debris. Passenger trains are passing around Springfield over the Lake Shore Railroad. Before traffic can be fully resumed on the Nickel Plate at this place a new bridge will have to be built.

ALDERMAN HIT COWBOY:

JOHN H. SOUTHWICK MUST PACE AS-SAULT CHARGE AND DAMAGE SUIT.

Tonkers Mayoralty Possibility Knocked Out Rattlesnake Pete at Glen Island -He Teased My Indians, Says Pete-Cowboy Leered

at My Women Friends, Says Southwick. NEW ROCHELLE, July 11 .- After trying & week or more to identify a young man who visited Glen Island on the Fourth of July and knocked out Rattlesnake Pete, the cowboy in charge of the Sioux Indians, the Pinkerton detectives will secure a warrant for John H. Southwick, an Alderman of Yonkers, charging him with felonious assault. Mr. Southwick is a nephew of Congressman George N. Southwick of the Twentieth New fork district and is spoken of as the probable Republican candidate for Mayor of Yonkers. John H. Starin, the owner of Glen Island, indignant at the assault on his cowboy and if the Yonkers Alderman is the guilty man he is going to make his Fourth of July prank cost him as much as he can. What Mr Starin is more angry at than anything else are several articles which have appeared in Yonkers newspapers making a hero out of Southwick and leading the public to believe that he attacked the cowboy to protect women

As for Rattlesnake Pete, he said to-day that he had decided not to resort to the swift style of justice in vogue on the plains in dealing with the Yonkers Alderman. He will fall back on the slower methods of the effete East and has engaged Lawyer John J. Crennan to bring an action against his assailant for $5,000 damages.

The cowboy is still being treated by 'Dr. Peck of New Rochelle. His face is swollen, and he says the man who hit him must have used a pair of brass knuckles or something The real name of Rattlesnake Pete is Willlam H. Liddiard, and when he is at home he lives on a ranch on the Shoshone River n Wyoming, right next to the one owned by Buffalo Bill. In fact, it was Buffalo Bill who recommended Rattleenake Pete to Mr Starin as a good man to take charge of his Sloux indians. The cowboy goes about the island dressed like an ordinary citizen except that he has long, curly hair and wears

"On the afternoon of the Fourth," he said to a Sun reporter, "two women and two men who I afterward learned were this man Southwick and a man named Yerkes were passing through the Indian camp. I saw that Southwick was acting very smart. He would shy away, like he was afraid of the Indians and then he would go up to their enclosure and guy them. Now, these redskins are a sensitive lot and I hollered to Southwick to let them alone. He didn't say anything at the time, but he and the others went on. Later in the evening when I met Southwick again he was at the ferry. As soon as he saw me coming he said: "There he is, he's a cheap skate anyway. 'You can't call me any such names.' I said. 'I wont stand for it.' He made a pass at me with his left hand and I struck at him. Then he put his right hand in his pocket and pulled out something. I think it must have been a pair of brass knuckies. Before I knew what was coming I was knocked insensible. When I recovered, Southwick and his friends were gone.

"If I was at home," continued the cowboy, "I would be justified in taking a rifle and killing Southwick for a cowardly tung like that. It would hardly be safe for him to ever come here again, as the Indians are all worked up, and when they are mad they haven't a bit of sense. They would run a knife through him just as quick as they'd look at him.

"I understand that when Southwick went home some of the Yonkers papers made a hero out of him. Said that I was a swaggering loafer going about insulting women, and that Southwick couldn't stand it. He had to walk in and take their part. Well, I have been a cowpuncher and a scout all my life, and I'll wager I behave myself among had to walk in and take their part. Well, I have been a compuncher and a scent all my life, and I'll wager I behave myself among women as well as he does or anybody else."

The police of Gien Island say that after the scrimmage on July 4 Alderman Southwick, fearing the wrath of some of the Sioux Indians who were looking for him, came back to the café, and got a policeman to escort him to the ferry. This policeman to escort him to the ferry. This policeman's name is Case Casey, and he used to be an Alderman in Yonkers himself. He got Southwick and his friends through the gates without the Indians observing him, and took a car for Yonkers. Less than a year ago Alderman Southwick had another exciting experience. He was spending his vacation at a Canadian lake near Detroit, and when one of the women of the party put an American flag over her cottage some Canadians took it down. There were four of them concerned in the removal of the flag, and Southwick, who is handy with his flats, hunted them up, and whipped them all.

Yonkers, N. Y. July 11.—Alderman Southwick said to-night: "I went to Gien Island accompanied by two young ladies and had got as far as the ferryboat running to the island when my attention was attracted by the actions of a burly individual dressed in cowboy style. He had a boit on, from which hung two is guns, and he looked real bad. The fellow was very much under the influence of liquor and was acting in a very disorderly way. He was jostling people right and left and evidently looking for fight. As he neared me he levered at my friends and asked what right I had speaking to them. I retorted rather hotly and he made a pass at me. I dodged and quickly landed heavily under the fellow's chin, flooring him and putting him completely out of business. I was afraid he might try to use his guns, so I stood prepared, but he evidently had enough. Friends explained the affair to a policeman who approached and he refused to make an arrest."

DIDN'T FIND THE MYLODON. Patagonian Expedition's Search Not Secret ful -Did Make Valuable Collecti

Special Cable Despatch to TRB SUN LONDON, July 12 .- The Doily Express an nounces the return of the expedition that went to Pategonia to seek for the mylodon. It says that after a year of exploration it may be taken for certain that the creatures do not exist on the eastern side of the Cor dilleras. Some further remains, however, were found bearing that extraordinary appearance of freshness that marked those previously discovered. These latter finds were 200 miles distant from the earlier discoveries. The expedition reports having discovered a new species of puma, and also a great lake among the Andes, in which there were countless icebergs. The expedition brought back remarkable zoological, ornithological, geological and botanical collections, the last including remarkable orchids. It is possible that the expedition will return shortly and explore from the Chilian side,

MIRACLE IN ST. LOUIS CONVENT? Church Investigating the Case of Sister Catherine, Cured of Cancer by Prayer.

ST. Louis, Mo., July 11.-Acting under orders from Rome, Archbishop Kane has appointed a court of priests to investigate the alleged miraculous cure of Sister Catherine Burke, of the Sacred Heart, from a malignant cancer with which she was afflicted. The investigation is secret and the conclusions will be sent to Rome, where the seal will be broken. At the Vatican all the evi-dence will be reviewed and pronouncement made upon the evidence as to whether it is a miracle, and if so, as to what order of miracle it is. Upon the result of this inquiry depends much that will tend toward the deltification of Barrat, founder of the order of the Sacred Heart. Sister Catherine Burke is a native of St Louis, 36 years of age. At the age of 17 she joined the Sacred Heart order. While stationed at Omaha, Neb., two years ago, she was taken sick with cancer, and after the best physicians of that city had pronounced the case incurable, she was sent back to her native city. Dr. A. L. Boyce attended her. He soon announced that she was beyond earthly skill.

The sisters of the order decided to make nine-days' prayer to Mme. Barrat, their patron. The story current is that they secured a garment that had been worn by Mine. Barrat and arrayed Sister Catherine in it At the end of the nine days Sister Catherine arose from her bed, dressed herself without assistance, and reported to the Mother Superior for duty. All trace of the cancer had disappeared.

CONSUL ASKS ACCESS TO ITALIANS. Unable to Reach His Fellow Countrymen in Hospital at Peru. Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 11 .- Gov. Durbin was cailed on by the Department of State at Washington to-day to intervene in his offiial capacity in a controversy between the Wabash Railroad Company and the Italian Government, which has been laid before the Federal authorities. The letter to the Governor says that the representative of the Italian Consul at Chicago went to the Wabash Rellroad hospital at Peru to see the Italian laborers who had been injured in the Wabash Riffroad wreck near Cass, in which eight Italians were killed outright and several injured, and that "this representative of the Consul was denied any communication whatever with the men by the agent of the railroad company." The letter says the representative of the had arrived from Italy only two days before the wreck, and cannot understand a word of English. The Italian Consul has declared to the Government that the injured men and, therefore, request has been made of the Department of State to intervene in the matter, with a view to obtaining permission from the local authorities for Consul Rose-wadowskie to render aid to the Italian hospital patients. The letter asks Gov. Durbin to take what action he deems best under the circumstances to aid "a friendly government."

TRUST MAKES CONCESSIONS BUT WILL NOT UNIONIZE ALL MILLS.

Offers Uniform Wages and Accepts Other Demande Except to Force Its Men Inte Labor Organizations Unwillingly -Amalgamated Men Flatly Refuse This Offer.

PITTSBURG. July 11 .- A' conference between three constituent companies of the United States Steel Corporation and the Amalgamated Association of Iron. Steel and Tin Workers was held to-day at the Hotel Lincoln. It was said authoritatively that the companies represented agreed to make concessions. They offered to sign the amalgamated scale for all the plants, and to make the wages uniform for the various kinds of work in all mills operated, but declined to unionize the plants that have been operated for years as nou-

They declared that it would be unfair to the men to force them into the unions if they do not desire to join. They were also willing to concede the right to the amalgamated officials to enter the mills and organize the men, but objected to compulsion.

This proposition of the manufacturers was discussed most of the day. The representatives of the workmen, however, flatly refused to entertain it and insisted on their old demand that the companies must sign the scale for all their mills, union and nonunion. The conference adjourned this evening and will meet again to-morrow morning.
